

A history of student disenfranchisement...

In the 1980s, fearing possible student candidates for city council, the city government gerrymandered Athens so that students could not win an election. Here's an example.

The district lines are drawn along Lumpkin and Baxter Streets to divide up all the high-rise dorms. As you can see, Russell and Brumby, Creswell, and O-House all happen to be in different districts. These dorms are all within a block of each other.

Learn how the A-CC Government takes advantage of students, and what we can do about it. Join EAC.

SGA-External Affairs Committee

www.uga.edu/sga/eac